War Everlasting

LOCAL MENTION.

Oil and gas lamps made electric.

hone Your Want Ad to The Star.

The daily papers tell about the war, give all the news-that's what they're printed for. They're full of tales, dramatic, stern and sad, and lists of dead from this or t'other grad; they tell how French has wisely moved his troops, and how the Turks, defeated, leave their coops. All news that's fresh the daily papers yield, for it they rake o'er every crimson field. Then come the weeklies, with their stories raw, their high-brow writers thrashing ancient straw; the yarns with which the daily prints are through are rearranged and handed us as new. And when the news is stale as last year's beans it's warmed again by monthly magazines. And now all authors, in their cozy dens, oil their machines and fill their fountain pens, and write of war, and all their coming books will smack of blood and guns and army cooks. Their plots they'll glean from stories you have read; like coroners, they'll gloat above their dead, and every page will speak of dying groans, and every chapter treat of dead men's bones. War has more evils than the soldier knows when he's shot by, or when he shoots, his foes. The stay-at-homes must suffer just as well, and sigh with one who knew, "Ah, war is hell!"

spring is here—at least for a visit. But the sunshine and the balmy temperatures were even more positive evidence of the fact. Starting with a temperature of 28 degrees at 8 o'clock yesterday morning, the mercury skipped blithely up to 44 degrees at 10 o'clock, a jump of 16 degrees in two hours. From that point the climb was steady, until at 3 o'clock yesterday the maximum temperature of the day, 60 degrees, was reached. At 10 o'clock last night the mercury had gone down only to 42 degrees. All of which helped to make a mighty fine spring day, thank you. Furthermore, there was sunshine all day, from the time the sun rose in the morning until it set at night, the per cent of possible sunshine being 100, a perfect score.

The weather bureau today predicted that the weather might become unsettled by this evening, and that rain might be looked for tomorrow. Persistent high temperatures, however, were predicted, with no actual cold weather in sight at least for the next few days. But the sunshine and the balmy tem

PRESIDENT TO SPEAK FOR BEREA COLLEGE

Is Expected to Make Address at Memorial Continental Hall Wednesday Evening.

President Wilson is expected to address the public meeting to be held Wednesday evening in Memorial Continental Hall in the interest of Berea College, Berea, Ky., and of the southern mountaineers.

Berea College has been desvribed by Dr. William Goodell Frost, its presi dent, as an institution purposed "to meet the superrural conditions of Appalachian America." He points out that in this mountain region of the south, covering parts of eight states, there are 3,000,000 Americans of Scotch and English lineage whose characteris-tic traits are survivals from colonial times. "In one generation Berea will bring them through stages of progress requiring six generations where ad-vance has been unaided," Dr. Frost as-serts.

Besides President Wilson, Hamilton W. Mabie of the Outlook, Frederick G. Bonser of Columbia University, and President Frost will be the speakers. Justice Hughes of the Supreme Court of the United States will preside. Music is to be given by the Marine Band.
